Note: Phones with Android 9.0 and above no longer support USB audio. In order to playback audio to the headunit, WebLink headunit clients should support a parallel audio channel such as Bluetooth Audio. Connectivity issues with the phones above may be caused by incompatible USB drivers on the headunit.

Additional Considerations

Although the phone list provided in this document lists phones used by Abalta for certifying WebLink headunits, it has been found that some phones may have incompatibility with certain WebLink headunits due to USB driver incompatibility issues found on the headunit platform.

Abalta strongly recommends using the latest USB EAP and AOA drivers to ensure compatibility.
